As the first company in Bali with a down-importing licence, we decided to get right to it and are proud to present this unique duo of down underquilts. They come in 650 and 850 Fillpower (Nikwax hydrophobic DWR and RDS certified) duck down and will surely keep you as warm and comfy during your adventures as only down can. The 650 model is rated until 2°C comfort (even for sensitive people), while with the Pro 850, you can hammock below freezing. To keep them lightweight, we decided to use our super soft 20D lightest fabric.

MOONBLANKET COMPACT

At the same time, they are much more and it will often make sense to bring them along even if hammocking is not on the agenda.

COMMUNITY

SOCIAL & ENVIRONMENTAL PROJECTS

Over the past years, we have been very fortunate. We could drastically improve the local livelihood situation with our friends and partners in Sumba. In fact, things have improved so much that the TTTM Foundation's involvement in Sumba is gradually phasing out. We all are tremendously proud of the project's developments and are now eagerly following our Sumbanese friends' steps and standing by their side with advice upon request. With much excitement, we are now shifting our focus and energies to other selected social and environmental projects that we believe in and that are working towards similar goals to make the world a better place. We are an organisation with a strong commitment to sustainability and social responsibility. Therefore we feel a strong calling to give back to society and to support those in need. Amongst other activities, we have engaged in a couple of collaborations. As we are in the reorientation process of our social endeavors, let us know about any interesting projects or partners!

In addition to numerous collaborations, such as donating 200 sleeping bags to people experiencing homelessness in Austria—our second home—through the Caritas organization, our main partnerships include:

SOLEMEN

One of our current partner organisations is the humanitarian project "Solemen". Solemen is a non-profit organization based in Bali, Indonesia, that provides various forms of support to people with disabilities, chronic illnesses, and other life-threatening conditions. They assist individuals who are unable to afford medical treatment, rehabilitation, or other basic necessities. They also organize campaigns and events to raise awareness about various issues affecting the community. Ticket To The Moon recognizes the great work that Solemen is doing and wants to help them with their cause. Our company has provided printed eco-bags that are made from eco-friendly materials and are reusable. These eco-bags feature Solemen's and our company logo and are designed to help raise awareness about Solemen's mission and promote sustainable practices. Through this project, Ticket To The Moon hopes to encourage people to use eco-bags instead of single-use plastic bags. Plastic pollution is a significant environmental issue, and we must take steps to reduce our plastic usage. By donating eco-bags to Solemen, we aim to help reduce plastic waste while also supporting a great cause. We are proud to support Solemen's mission and to help make a positive impact in the community. Our team believes that it is important to give back to society and we will continue to find ways to support worthy causes. Another way we support Solemen is by providing Moonchairs to disadvantaged families amongst many others with disabled children. These families were previously hidden away in a poor area of Denpasar without support or care from the outside. Through Solemen working closely with the government of Bali they all now enjoy new lives in Denpasar area of Renon in clean solid housing together with wheelchair access. The children benefit greatly from regular therapy, the provision of nutritionally balanced food and ongoing emotional support from the charity. Previously none of the children had the opportunity to experience play. But they are now even getting into all sorts of mischief with their newly discovered (and wild) swinging possibilities. What a joy!

PROJECT WINGS

Project Wings is a growing German NGO that is currently building the world's largest recycling village in Indonesia from 250 tons of plastic waste. They aim to tackle three major global issues: species extinction, tropical deforestation, and plastic pollution. The organization is implementing a self-sustaining system run by locals that combines environmental protection, nature conservation, and animal welfare. They use an innovative approach to turn plastic waste into Ecobricks, which are then used to construct affordable buildings. The NGO is also involved in protecting the rain forest, animal welfare, promoting alternatives to plastic and education. Their plans include building a sustainable marketplace, sports grounds and organic restaurant. Project Wings collaborates with various partners and supporters to realize their vision. We support them with custom printed bags as a start to give to participants of round table meetings with NGO's and politicians as well as for funding activities in Germany to raise mindfulness for this important mission. We will support their crew with hammocks for the community patrol and for sleeping cabins for the team and supporters. We are currently in the planning phase of the next steps to raise awareness in Sumatra.

QUALITY CONTROL

After the workstation inspections, every product is checked again before leaving the production

Quality is our third pillar (where it gets really nerdy) besides acting Ethical and our Community approach. To follow the hammock flow, let us start with the incoming material. Upon its reception, samples of all security-relevant components are collected and taken into our testing room.

TESTING MACHINE

Product Testing Machine

Before entering production, they are torn by our tensile testing machine, while the measuring sensors record the parameters and save a protocol for our QC database. Some parts, like the S-Hooks for example, are tested constantly from each batch produced. For fabrics, we developed a unique testing procedure that makes sure that the fabric is suitable for hammocks and that the quality stays the same for every batch and colour. The sewing of our straps is monitored. We also test final products with scrutiny to ensure that you receive perfect products made with love in Bali.
